The 32nd Annual Public Action for the Arts Super Bowl Party
Hosted by Boston Talks 96.9 FM, WTKK's Doug Meehan and Hank Morse
February 5th ~ 4:30pm

JANUARY 5, 2011 -BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS~On February 5th, West End Johnnies will host the 32nd Annual Public Action for the Arts Super Bowl Party. This year's hosts are Boston Talks 96.9 FM, WTKK's Doug Meehan and Hank Morse. The event is sponsored by Public Action for the Arts, a charitable organization that supports after school programs in Massachusetts.

“For 32 years now, the proceeds of this event have been vital to fund our efforts to support kids in Massachusetts,” said Joe Hill, President of Public Action for the Arts. “We are delighted to partner with West End Johnnies for this event, and hope everyone looking for a great place to watch the Super Bowl will join us.”

West End Johnnies will have their full menu available and The Super Bowl will be played uninterrupted on all West End Johnnies high definition TV's. The event features terrific door and raffle prizes, incredible live and silent auction items and chances to win prizes after every quarter. All ticket purchases are tax deductible ($25 in advance ~ $30 at the door ~ Sponsor tables of 10 are also available).

ABOUT PUBLIC ACTION FOR THE ARTS

Public Action for Arts & Education (PAAE) is a charitable organization staffed by volunteers who share a common mission and pledge to assist organizations that can offer positive social and cultural alternatives to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts' children.

Since 1974, PAAE has remained faithful to its mission by providing an advocacy voice for the arts, procuring grants for arts organizations and by providing direct financial support to children's arts programs that lost most or all of its funding from governmental agencies.

PAAE spearheaded essential legislation to help create the Massachusetts Arts Lottery. Funding of this type was the first in our country. The Arts Lottery became Megabucks which channeled more than $40 million into local arts programs, funding over 25,000 arts projects in 351 cities and towns in Massachusetts.
